

A review of The Christmas Gift

I have read story of The Christmas Gift. My personal thought of it was.....

It was really good but was a bit sad when the baby died. My favourite bit was when the stranger made the baby alive again. Another good bit and a bit strange was when there were no footprints in the snow where the stranger had walked. I think the stranger was Jesus because he made no footprints in the snow, I think there is a poem like that about when Jesus carried someone across the desert.
